N. D. CROPS DOUBLE LAST YEAR'S YIELD

PRODUCTION 109 PER CENT MORE THAN IN 1923, FIGURES SHOW; RAISE HALF U. S. SPRING WHEAT

North Dakota's Gain in 1924 Crop Production Is Far Above That of the Rest of the United States, Tables For Last Two Years Show — Cash Value of Crops Worth $152,716,000 More Than Last Year

The 1924 crops of North Dakota were 109.03 per cent more valuable than the crops in 1923, according to a revised summary of estimates of production and values for the two years, issued by H. O. Hebranson, agricultural statistician, United States Department of Agriculture, Grand Forks.

Crops in the United States as a whole were more valuable than those of 1923, but North Dakota's percentage of increase was remarked as compared to the rest of the country. While the value of national production this year is 8.64 percent greater than the total value of the national crops of 1923, the grand total of crops grown in North Dakota in 1924 approximately $152,716,000 while the crop in 1923 was worth approximately $102,716,000, the 1924 crop being about 109.03 percent greater value than the production of 1923.

The average yield of spring wheat per acre in the state for the present year is estimated at 15.5 bushels, as compared to 7.4 bushels per acre last year.

MOST YIELDS LARGER

There is shown an increase in production per acre of all crops except corn and wild hay. The corn yield per acre is placed at 20 bushels in the present year as compared to 33.5 bushels per acre last year. This situation, however, according to experts, is not true of southwestern North Dakota, where corn yield per acre ran high this year.

North Dakota produced almost one-half of the entire spring wheat yield of the United States. This state yielded 134,618,000 bushels of spring wheat as compared to 285,638,000 for the United States as a whole. The state also produced almost one-half of the flaxseed, the production for the state being 14,722,000 bushels as compared to 30,173,000 bushels for the entire United States.

There were two extra clerks employed and regular clerks worked overtime. The force was able to clean up each day's business the following day, and had cleared the postoffice almost entirely yesterday morning. However, there were many who didn't heed the "mail early" cry, for yesterday afternoon and last night hundreds of packages were received on the trains, too late for Christmas. The cold weather, delaying train service, made the burden of handling Christmas business, an exceedingly heavy one.

Day Is Quiet

Christmas day dawned beautifully in the city, and continued that way throughout the day, the mercury rising as high as 27 degrees above zero. With a bright sun shining, hundreds of automobilists spent a part of Christmas day on the highways.

Although firemen usually spend an apprehensive Christmas day, because many fires are started from Christmas tree lights, there was no fire risk in Bismarck over the holiday. The police department reported two arrests, both for intoxication, the result of a little too much celebration. Several automobile accidents.

Rye For Next Year

The total cultivated acreage of North Dakota for 1924 is placed at 7,795,000 as compared to 17,553,000 the year previous. Regarding winter rye, for 1925, the statistician says: "The acreage sown to winter rye in North Dakota this fall is approximately 1,129,000 acres. This is about 139,000 acres increase above the 1923 sowing of rye or 114 percent. The very favorable soil conditions which prevailed over much of the state throughout September and October together with the very late increase in the market value of this crop caused the increase in this acreage. Since the crop was sown under conditions which have continued very favorable and the prospect is very good. The presence of considerable snow is also a favorable feature."

OKLAHOMA TOWN BEGINS TASK OF BURYING DEAD IN TRAGEDY OF CHRISTMAS EVE ENTERTAINMENT

Joint Funeral Services For 16 of Those Who Perished in School House Fire Planned by Townspeople—Monument To Memory of Those Who Perished Is To Be Started—Netting Over Windows Made Escape Through Them Impossible and Caused Panic

Hobart, Okla., Dec. 26.—(By the A. P.)—Having completed the difficult task of identifying all of the 34 victims of the fire which destroyed the school house during a Christmas Eve entertainment, the people of Babb's Switch settlement today set about the sad work of burying their dear.

Plans for placing the unknown dead in a common grave, first considered when it appeared identification of all bodies would be impossible because of their charred condition, were abandoned last night when identity of the last victim—a little girl of 11—was established.

Joint funeral services for 16 of the dead were set for this afternoon, followed by burial in separate graves. The Rev. George W. Estes, pastor of the Presbyterian church, was named to conduct the services, with ministers from all denominations participating. The remaining 17 victims of the fire probably will be buried tomorrow.

WEDDING PEALS ARE HALTED BY SCHOOL TRAGEDY

Hobart, Oklahoma, Dec. 26.—(By the A. P.) Bells which were to have pealed joyously for the wedding of Claude Bolding and Gladys Clements yesterday will today toll lugubriously as the body of the bride-to-be is laid in its final resting place in the Hobart cemetery.

Miss Clements was one of three sisters who perished with 30 other persons in the fire which destroyed the Babb's Switch school house. Building was badly burned in a futile attempt to save his sweetheart, but is expected to recover.

One of Miss Clements' sisters came with her three-year-old daughter from Michigan to attend the wedding. Today the bodies of mother and child lay side by side in a local morgue, together with that of Miss Clements' other sister, who was to have acted as bridesmaid. Romance again bowed to tragedy in the case of Aubrey Coffey and Vesta J. Ackson, who were to have been married next spring. Both perished in the fire.

Dies Trying Rescue

J. E. Eden, carried through the doorway of the building on the tide of hysterical humans fighting their way to safety, sought to force his way back into the inferno for his three-year-old daughter but he was unable to gain an entrance and the child burned to death.

Mrs. George Houlth lost three children in the fire. One of them, Edward, 8 years old, she had managed to get out of the building with her, but once outside the boy remembered his toys he had left behind and dashed back after them. He never came out.

Families Broken

Several families lost two or more members in the fire.

At two previous Christmas Eve celebrations at the school Christmas trees, sought fire, but were extinguished without serious damage. Last Christmas William Curtis, who lost his life in the fire, played the role of Santa Claus and during the distribution of gifts his white beard caught fire but he quickly extinguished it. Babb's Switch is a prosperous farming community located seven miles south of Hobart. Cotton and wheat are the principal products raised. The population is about 250.

HALF MILLION CATCH MADE

British Rum Schooner, Seven Prisoners, Taken

New York, Dec. 26.—Coast guard officials Christmas Eve captured 19 prisoners, a British schooner, three motor boats and liquor valued at more than $500,000 here. The British schooner Patara with 7 prisoners and 6,000 cases of alleged champagne, liquors and whiskies was among the vessels brought to the barge office.

The seven prisoners on the Patara, a two-master, were captured after a 40 mile chase by the coast guard cutters Maritan and Seneca. The prisoners were held without bail and kept under a heavy guard in the quarters of their ship, which was docked at the battery.

For the past two years, the Patara has been listed as a subject rum runner by customs authorities, they said.

Saltville, Va., Dec. 26.—(By the A. OKLAHOMA TOWN BEGINS TASK OF BURYING DEAD IN TRAGEDY OF CHRISTMAS EVE ENTERTAINMENT

Joint Funeral Services For 16 of Those Who Perished in School House Fire Planned by Townspeople—Monument To Memory of Those Who Perished Is To Be Started—Netting Over Windows Made Escape Through Them Impossible and Caused Panic

Hobart, Okla., Dec. 26.—(By the A. P.)—Having completed the difficult task of identifying all of the 34 victims of the fire which destroyed the school house during a Christmas Eve entertainment, the people of Babb's Switch settlement today set about the sad work of burying their dead.

Plans for placing the unknown dead in a common grave, first considered when it appeared identification of all bodies would be impossible because of their charred condition, were abandoned last night when identity of the last victim—a little girl of 11—was established.

Joint funeral services for 16 of the dead were set for this afternoon, followed by burial in separate graves. The Rev. George W. Estes, pastor of the Presbyterian church, was named to conduct the services, with ministers from all denominations participating. The remaining 17 victims of the fire probably will be buried tomorrow.

WEDDING PEALS ARE HALTED BY SCHOOL TRAGEDY

Hobart, Oklahoma, Dec. 26.—(By the A. P.)—Bells which were to have pealed joyously for the wedding of Claude Bolding and Gladys Clements yesterday will today toll lugubriously as the body of the bride-to-be is laid in its final resting place in the Hobart cemetery.

Miss Clements was one of three sisters who perished with 30 other persons in the fire which destroyed the Babb's Switch school house. Bolding was badly burned in a futile attempt to save his sweetheart, but is expected to recover.

One of Miss Clements' sisters came here with her three-year-old daughter from Michigan to attend the wedding. Today the bodies of mother and child lay side by side in a local morgue, together with that of Miss Clements' other sister, who was to have acted as bridesmaid. Romance again bowed to tragedy in the case of Aubrey Coffey and Vesta J. Ackson, who were to have been married next spring. Both perished in the fire.

Dies Trying Rescue
J. F. Eden, carried through the doorway of the building on the tide of hysterical hordes fighting their way to safety, sought to force his way back into the inferno for his three-year-old daughter, but he was unable to gain an entrance and the child burned to death.

Mrs. George Bolding lost three children in the fire. One of them, Edward, 8 years old, she had managed to get out of the building with her, but once outside the boy remembered his toys he had left behind and dashed back after them. He never came out.

Families Broken
Several families lost two or more members in the fire. At two previous Christmas Eve celebrations at the school, Christmas trees had been set up, but were extinguished without serious damage. Last Christmas William Curtis, who lost his life in the fire, played the role of Santa Claus and during the distribution of gifts his white beard caught fire but he quickly extinguished it.

Babb's Switch is a prosperous farming community located seven miles south of Hobart. Cotton and wheat are the principal products raised. The population is about 250.

Jamestown, N. He was reported somewhat improved this morning over his Thursday morning condition, which was very serious.

HALF MILLION CATCH MADE

New York, Dec. 26.—Coast guard officials Christmas Eve captured 19 prisoners, a British schooner, three motor boats and liquor valued at more than $500,000 here. The British schooner Patara with 7 prisoners and 6,000 cases of alleged champagne, liquors and whiskey was among the vessels brought to the barge office. The seven prisoners on the Patara, a two master, were captured after a 40 mile chase by the coast guard cutters Maritan and Seneca. The prisoners were held without bail and kept under a heavy guard in the quarters of their ship, which was docked at the battery.

For the past two years, the Patara has been listed as a subject run by customs authorities, they said.

The Dick, a 42-knot motorboat was captured alongside the Patara 19 miles off Jones inlet, on Tuesday. Six prisoners with 132 cases of liquor were seized with the boat. The prisoners are held under $1,000 bail each.

FAVOR DRAB WOMEN
Cairo, Dec. 26.—Women of the "Voili Society," a new Mohammedan-religious sect, must abandon the wearing of any bright colors and must not be seen in public unless dressed and veiled in black and white. The new sect believes that the attraction of bright colors is responsible for most of the evil in the world.

Welch-Gilchrist Nuptials Are Solemnized

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. George A. Welch, 115 Fourth Street at eight o'clock Friday morning when Mrs. Welch's daughter, Josephine Joan, was joined in marriage to James Harvey Gilchrist of Berea, Ohio.

The home was decorated with Christmas greens, poinsettias, and Christmas trees banked with snow and lighted with frosted lights. White candles were used throughout the house and the bride's table had a centerpiece of white rosettes and froisias.

The bride wore an ensemble suit of bottle green georgette crepe and tulle with a white fur stole and carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride was attended by her sister, Gwendolyn, who was given away in marriage by John P. French. The Rev. Mr. Postlethwaite read the impressive ring service and Miss Atkinson played Schuman-Liszt "Dedication" and the Mendelssohn wedding march immediately preceding the service.

A three course wedding breakfast was served after the marriage ceremony. Guests included relatives and close friends of the bride. Mr. David Gilchrist of Berea, Ohio, father of the groom, was an out-of-town guest. The bride has grown to womanhood in Bismarck, where she attended the grade schools and obtained part of her high school education, graduating from the Long Beach high school. After finishing high school she attended the Minneapolis School of Art for four years and spent one year at the Art Students' League in New York City studying sculpture under Lentelli.

A number of social functions have been given for the bride. Among them were parties by Miss Elizabeth Jones, Mrs. T. R. Atkinson, Miss Theodosia Pisch, a shower given by Agnes Parsons and Lucille Ehrig, and a tea given by Ruth and Ethel Folsom. The bride's mother entertained a small number of the bride's friends at a tulle tea on Dec. 13.

The groom came from Scotland with his parents at the age of twelve going directly to Berea, a suburb of Cleveland, Ohio, where he has since resided. He graduated from the Berea high school after which he attended college and later the Art Student's League in New York City. He is now employed as commercial illustrator with the Art Engraving and Color Type Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilchrist will visit in Minneapolis and St. Paul with friends and relatives and will be at home in Berea, Ohio after February first.

THE LONELY TROTZKY

Leon Trotsky, power in the Russian revolution, second only to Lenin and perhaps the greatest power in holding together the Soviet forces in the early days of the revolution, must know that glory is fleeting. He is pictured broken in health and spirits and living in seclusion at a Russian resort while his opponents hurl invectives at him without mercy in Moscow.

Trotsky once was in America. He is said to have been a tailor on the New York East Side. At night he lectured on socialism and communism, and told of the bright days of the future when the revolution would come in Russia. He returned to Russia and with Lenin engineered the overthrow of the Kerensky government for the dictatorship of the proletariat. Lenin was the diplomat, schemer, plotter; Trotsky, the man of action. The latter took charge of the army, and built a strong force, every ready to mercilessly enforce the dictates of the revolutionary powers.

Lenine died after he had been forced to abandon his plan for complete Communism in favor of "the new economic policy" under which private business was restored. He was forced to this only because of the complete breakdown of the Soviet administration. Trotsky preserved order with Lenin, his armies won victories and kept the crowds in line at home. Now he is a victim of the unceasing current of unrest in Russia, born of failure of Communism to bring the Utopia the peasants expected.

The position of the Soviet regime grows more difficult. It is supreme in that it can crush disorder and hold power. It is in dire straits in that it has not been able to make the policies of Communism function with success. Trotsky is a victim of the monstrosity he helped to create.

COST OF PAVEMENT

The fact that the proposed paving of the National Parks Highway from Main street to a point beyond the penitentiary grounds is to cost some $40,000 more than a strip of paving an equal distance between Mandan and the bridge just laid by Morton county should call for some explanation.

While a hard surface road eliminating grade crossings to the east of the city is a welcomed improvement, why such an additional cost?

The proposed paving of the highway known popularly as the "pen road" covers a mileage practically that of the Mandan pike from the west end of the bridge to the streets of Mandan.

What appears a most excellent job was done at $40,000 less than it is proposed to spend east of this city. Whether the state highway commission, the bureau of public roads or the railroads will participate in a project that means such an increased cost remains to be seen.

It would seem that the same specifications as were followed in Morton county could be applied to the proposed Burleigh county project and a satisfactory highway result.

If there is some pressing need of paying $40,000 more for pavement on this side of the river than on the other, the members of the highway commission should give the reason. The county commissioners would be hardly justified in spending more money than Morton county did on a like distance of hard surface road.

The vote on the new court house indicated that the taxpayers of Burleigh county don't want to pay for frills and promotion.

NEW LABOR CHIEF

William Green, secretary and treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, assumes the presidency of the American Federation of Labor. Closely associated with Mr. Gompers, the work of the federation will go along smoothly under his direction until the next general election. Representing the largest single group of delegates in the federation the chances of Mr. Green succeeding himself seem bright although contingencies may arise that will force him to give way to someone else.

Mr. Green is not a radical. He voted to eject Dunne from the Portland convention in 1923. Opponent of the "one big union" idea, he fought any alignment with the Moscow International. His voice more recently was raised against labor going into the insurance business as it has invaded the field of banking.

He favors social legislation aimed at better working conditions and is the author of the Ohio Workman's Compensation law. On the whole Mr. Green seems a worthy successor to Mr. Gompers.

MULTIPLICITY LAWS

More than 14,000 new laws have been proposed in the present Congress. A bill is introduced every four minutes, on the average, while Congress is in session.

Few of them are expected to get beyond a pigeonhole, of course. They merely make good on politicians' promises to advocate certain measures. But, passed or unpassed, they reflect the national tendency to seek a new law as fast as a new problem develops. It's a delusion, the notion that law is a magical solution. Most of our problems are beyond the reach of laws.

PRICES

Wholesale prices are moving up. In November, according to Dun's organization, there was an advance of more than two cents on the dollar.

A higher cost of living is the price of a full wallet. For most people, the value of the dollar (its buying power) shrinks as fast as their income gains.

RUSSIAN BEAR

Russia claims she is disarming. Says her army and navy have been reduced by 48,000 recently, which brings their membership down to not much over 550,000.

The 1925 outlook is fairly peaceful along the Russian frontier. The Reds have found that propaganda is more effective than bullets.

SOLELY CULTURAL

(New York Times)

Refuting an early prediction, the West has encountered difficulty in making culture hum. From the University of Michigan, Professor R. C. Angell laments that "college no longer is solely a place for those who wish to become cultured." But his was only a plaintive idyll compared to the tragic gloom which emanates from the University of Minnesota.

Through the pages of The American Mercury, Richard Burton asks Why Go to College? and finds no answer. Professor Burton is in a process of wholesale exclusion. His heart is hardened against the "gentlemanly" type of student. That was to be expected. More significant is his diatribe against the dig, the grind, the chalk, the poler, the swatter—"the word varies, the genus is the same." This faithful plodder, this monster of "machine-like assiduity," he describes as "a monument of misapplied energy," as a "young man or woman of mediocre or worse culture who lacks initiative, personality and that creative energy which translates curiosity in learning into genuine performance." And he hurls him headlong from the haunts of the Muses together with the painted, fluttering butterfly.

One wonders just who will be left. The answer brings the tragic curtain of the fifth act. On the one hand Professor Burton excludes the young men of family and breeding who "take college as a matter of course because their predecessors did," and on the other he is even more down upon "those who go to college, not because their parents did, but because they did not." Thus nobody remains but the Faculty. For such an institution, solely cultural, there exists a happy precedent. All Souls' College at Oxford is inhabited only by dons, except that they have four or five "scholarship" undergraduates who do the chapel business for them, and may even be a self-limited paragon, doomed to extinction. But there are nineteen other colleges, swarming with sharks and swatters, with gentlemen butterflies and with youths whose forebears went to college or did not, from whose non-cultural activities dons of All Souls' are deprived as a by-product.

From Professor Angell's outgoing one surmises that college was once a place where young men were not at all interested in things "external," but deeply interested in everything "vital." The "principal purposes" of college life were eagerly embraced, while the "forms of achievement," now "coveted" were piously scorned, namely, "places on athletic teams, editorships of student publications, and prizes of student organizations." That being the case, there was no possibility of the "here, warship" of athletes, editors and Presidents which Professor Angell so sternly deprecates. One wonders what Carlyle would say—or Matthew Arnold, who described Oxford so lovingly as the haunt of young barbarians all at play. Would they have excluded the activities most warmly human, native and dynamic in young men? Surely there is something to say for the conception of culture, of which Professor Burton is so scornful, as "a sort of contagion; you get it by being exposed to it."

Is there, in fine, such a thing as being "solely cultural," a sort of "pure" culture, the Muses? Or is culture an overture, a fine essence of other things of personality and initiative and creative energy in any of the great fields of human endeavor? Few men have ever been highly praised for their culture, even college professors, unless they were first praised for something else.

A Thought

Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit? there is more hope of a fool than of him.—Prov. 26:12.

Man believes himself always greater than he is, and is esteemed less than he is worth.—Goethe.

A man on his way to execution in Arabia is safe from punishment if he can lay hands on the skirts of a woman.

These two were the only people in the room when Snitcher Snatch poked his head in.

"Ah, ha!" grinned the goblin. "I am now going to have one merry time." And he looked around at all the other toys—trains, tracks, aeroplanes, music-boxes, blocks, horns, doll barons and books.

Suddenly he had an idea.

"I'll give Daddy Long Legs a ride!" he cried, and seizing the long cotton gentleman, he stuffed him into the seat of the aeroplane that dangled from the ceiling by a string.

Daddy was much too large a passenger, but by hanging head down and feet down like a sheet over clothes line, he stuck on pretty well.

Then the bad little goblin wound up the engine with a key and gave it a push.

Round the room started the aeroplane with Daddy. Every minute it went faster and higher until it almost touched the ceiling.

Daddy Long Legs could stand it no longer. Out he flew, and in falling he knocked over Miss Tootsie Bobb, who fell onto the hearth and against a hot coal.

Daddy Long Legs fell on the hearth, too, his long cotton legs and his long cotton arms sprawling in every direction like the fingers of an old glove.

His coat tails had started to burn brightly, and Miss Tootsie Bobb, who was slowly singing, when down the chimney came Johnny Sweep and the Twins.

They were just in time to rescue the poor things, but not quick enough to catch Snitcher Snatch, who jumped out of the window.

"Tra-la-la-la-la!" he sang as he went.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE GOBLIN DOES MORE MISCHIEF

"Oh, dear me!" chuckled Snitcher Snatch, the goblin. "What a good time I am going to have with the children's toys, now that Christmas is over. Let's see! Where shall I go first?"

He sat down on the edge of a chimney, his knees under his chin, and thought and thought. "I know!" he cried with a wag of his head. "I'll go to the Reilly's. They have about a dozen children and there will be no end of things to smash."

So off he scampered over backyards and fences until he came to the Reilly's, and then he slipped in at the kitchen door when the grocery boy came.

He sneaked up to the nursery and stuck his head in. "There was nobody there. Nobody except the toys. Miss Tootsie Bobb, with the latest shingle cut on her brown yarn hair and grass-green eyes embroidered on her jersey skin."

"She was gazing into her tea cup, and sitting very informally on doll trunk, having tea with Daddy Long Legs, a cotton gentleman whose width was out of all proportion to his height. Indeed, Daddy might be said to be three dolls long and half a doll wide."

Daddy, in order to get his entire length off the floor, was installed in a high chair. Evidently his thoughts were not on food, for he was bent far back, staring straight up at the ceiling.

These two were the only people in the room when Snitcher Snatch poked his head in.

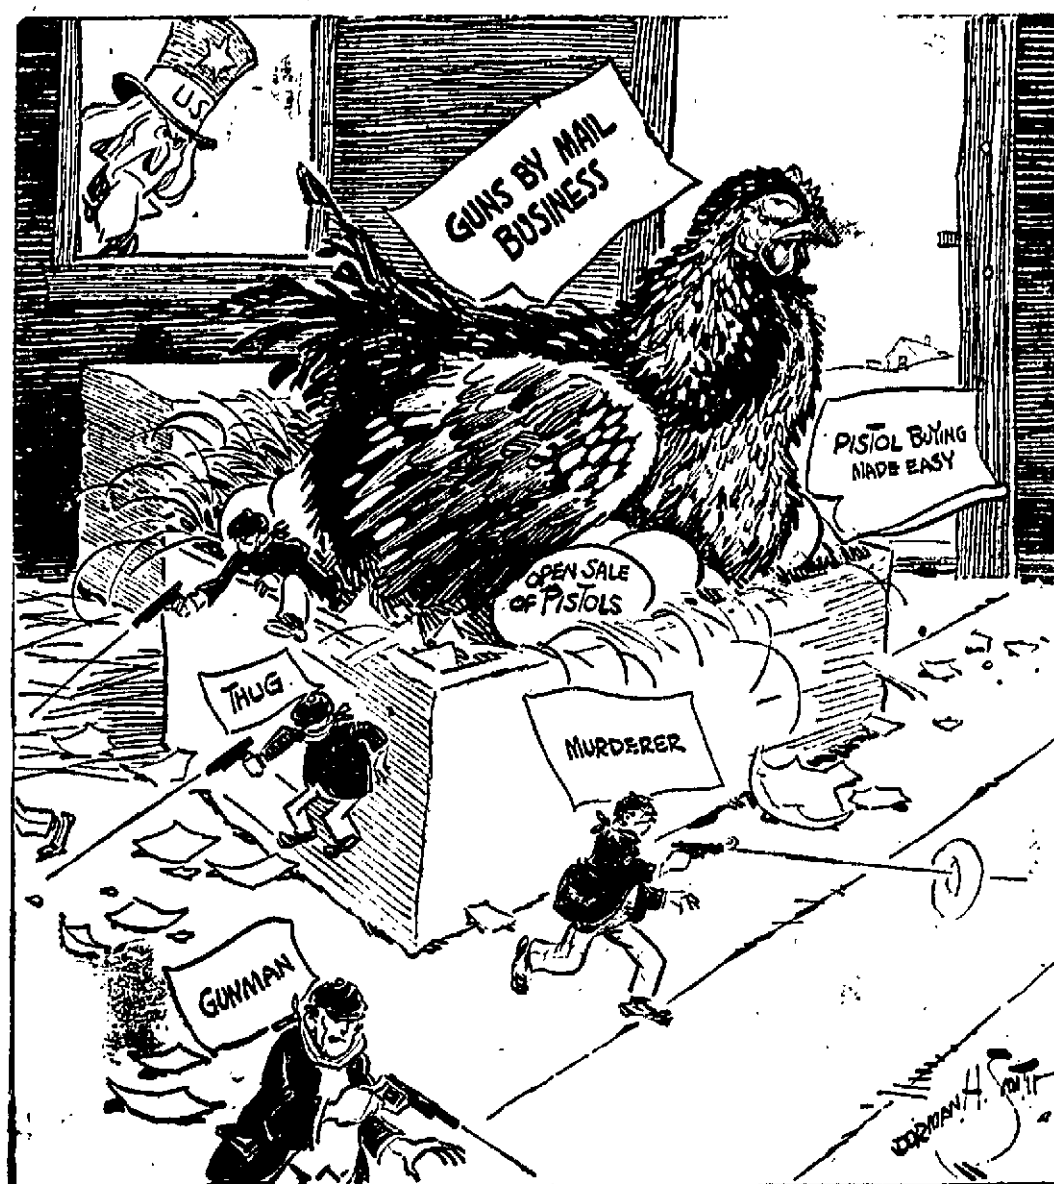

"Ah, ha!" grinned the goblin. "I am now going to have one merry time." And he looked around at all the other toys—trains, tracks, aeroplanes, music-boxes, blocks, horns, doll barons and books.

Suddenly he had an idea.

"I'll give Daddy Long Legs a ride!" he cried, and seizing the long cotton gentleman, he stuffed him

Bad Eggs Make Bad Hatching

The Tangle

Leslie, I was afraid to come out here when I married Dick. I never thought I would like these childish gay people. It seemed to me that they were without any responsibility.

Since coming here, however, I think I have learned that to be as happy as possible and as gay and smiling as this sad old world will let me be, is one's great mission on earth.

I see a great deal of Paula Perrier who has just built and furnished a gorgeous new home. We talk a great deal about you.

You completely captivated her when she made her personal appearance in your city. She thinks you are "the loveliest lady" she has ever known either in fiction or in real life.

I told her the other night that you were expecting a new baby.

I have never known her so interested in a bit of news. Usually she has no particular flair for gossip at any time. She asked me innumerable questions which I could not of course answer.

The first thing she said was, "If Madame Leslie should have a boy of her own, do you think it will make any difference in the love she gives to the one she has adopted?"

Then she added to everyone else: "Oh, I hope it will be a girl."

She asked me also if you would take it as she meant it if she should send you some little present to the coming baby.

"No one will ever know how grateful I am to Madame Leslie," she said. "For what she did for me in my own home town of Albany. If she had not taken me up I am afraid that some of the snobbish society women who had known me when I was an adventuress would have made my appearance very uncomfortable for me."

Madame Leslie, whom all the younger set followed, came forward and made my stay one of perfect happiness and success. I tell you, Madame Summers, only I know how much I have for which to thank the wife of John Alden Prescott."

I expect that was her French way, Leslie dear, of expressing herself.

She is a most interesting young woman and I get a lot of "kick," as they say out here, from her diverse points of view.

For instance: Last night when she was over here and we were talking of one of our mutual friends whose marriage has just gone on the rocks, she said: "I don't think that Allen should be so desperately unhappy."

She was deliciously in love for at least a year. Why can she not remember that, instead of bemoaning the fact that her love is dead now? Sometimes I think, Madame Summers, that we make too much of disappointments and griefs and too little of our joys and bliss.

"I have learned that when we reach the place from where we can look back with the right perspective both joy and sorrow are but incidents of life."

EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

—AND WHEN I TOOK HOLD OF THE OLD CONCERN I IMMEDIATELY REORGANIZED IT, AND THEN I—

SAY, WATKINS, HOW MANY HOURS DO YOU SLEEP OUT OF THE TWENTY-FOUR?

OH, ABOUT EIGHT HOURS.

WELL, IF YOU DON'T TALK IN YOUR SLEEP, THAT'S ABOUT EIGHT HOURS YOU'RE NOT TALKING ABOUT YOURSELF!

He is not so handsome as some of the birds. That comes with the birth of the spring. And his voice is not cultured to chirp in the words. That gladden each heart as they sing. But he has a system to cheer all his own. And his bright little face makes us glad. As he flutters each day round the doors of our home. What soul could be cheerless and sad.

With his "Chick-a-dee-dee" how he warms up our hearts. The cold has no terrors for him. With a nod of his head as true friendship imparts. Till his form in the distance grows dim. How we save up the crumbs for his coming each day. And then wait till he's having in sight. For with many companions so bold and so gay. He is happy from morning till night.

He's a smart little fellow, this Snowbird of note. With his suit of a deep bluish gray. And a little white vest buttoned tight 'round his throat. So he cannot catch cold on his way. He is jolly and glad when the sun's shining bright. And he chatters away in the morn. He is singing and dancing, his heart is so light. And he never comes in where it's warm.

Little Snowbird, a lesson to me you have taught. And something to me you have given: Thru storm and thru sunshine Earth's tasks must be wrought. If we'd merit the raptures of Heaven; No day must go past but some good has been done. No night pass but Hope shows the way. To battle along with the ill of a song. Little Snowbird as you do this day.

TEN THOUSAND MURDERS A YEAR!

By Albert Apple

Sears, Roebuck & Co. stops selling pistols by mail. Butler Bros., another big mail order house, recently announced the same ban.

American police will have less work when all mail order houses discontinue the sale of pistols by mail, either voluntarily or under compulsion of a national law.

Uncle Sam undoubtedly has the power to end this traffic in death-dealing weapons by interstate-commerce.

At least 10,000 murders a year are committed in the United States. That is the known number, according to police statistics. There must be thousands of unknown killings, where the victims are never discovered.

By far a majority of murders are done with pistols. You read often of pistol murders. You read only occasionally of a human life taken by blade, club or poison.

To stop the shooting, shut off their pistol supply.

It is sometimes argued that, even if revolvers could not be bought in the open market, crooks would be able to buy pistols under cover. That is true, to some extent. But the supply would be smaller.

In most states and cities, revolvers can be purchased only by police permit or by registration. Effectiveness of this regulation is lessened by mail order sale.

An argument frequently advanced against stopping the sale of revolvers, is that the law-abiding householder would be defenseless against intruders. The answer to this is that the householder can arm himself with rifle or saved-off shotgun, which cannot be carried through streets by crooks without detection.

A pistol is a constant temptation to the lawless and weak-minded.

The national government should prohibit sale of pistols by mail. It can be done. It should be done.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 26.—The Strollers Club has taken a new lease on life. In a day gone by, many of New York's leaders in art, sport, society and finance belonged to this club.

Chauncey Depew and John Drew used to engage in a battle of wits and along would come Theodore Roosevelt with some humor-laden remark and vanquish them both.

The first cabaret in New York was introduced by the Strollers, when May Irwin and Marie Dressler entertained at club suppers.

At the reorganization supper General Bullard and Admiral Fiske and others spoke on serious subjects, but the next day the old boys got together and sang club songs and departed themselves generally in the manner of the college frat man.

Members belong to most of the other clubs in town, but form new alliances in the various groups of the Strollers.

One of the most unusual occupations to be found in New York is that of worm-digger. Hundreds of city folk go fishing on Sundays and Saturdays. They haven't time to dig their own bait. Most of them would not know where to dig for worms, or what kind to take when they found them. Along the Long Island railroad stations in the neighborhood of Jamaica Bay are to be seen many signs advertising worms for sale. Others dig bait for the tackle stores who retail them to patrons. Very comfortable livings are earned by the worm diggers, some of them making as high as $30 a day with the aid of their children. They own radios, yachts and autos.

A mercant on Seventh avenue is selling out his stock. "Tricked by the Weather" is the sign that proclaims his reason for the sale. Lack of winter weather has brought about very substantial losses by all New York merchants depending on the cold for trade. This is probably the worst season the local coal men ever have had.

Howard Chandler Christy, the artist, now paints to radio accompaniment, or so the story goes on Broadway.

WHOOPIING COUGH

Whooping cough is a malady likely to visit the children during the winter period, as was the case with one of the Jones youngsters.

Of course a doctor should be called, but in the event that a doctor is not immediately available and the child should be seized with a paroxysm of coughing try this:

Raise the child's arms high above the head. Bring them down and press them against the chest. Or turn the child alternately upon his face and his side. Cold water may be dashed in the child's face and mustard packs placed against the feet. A piece of ice placed upon the stomach has been known to furnish relief.

When the weather is mild see that the child gets out of doors as much as possible. Fresh air is a fine tonic, but be sure the child is well wrapped.

It is well to fumigate the room in which the child has slept.

(Florence Borner)

There's a spry little fellow out there in the snow. Who comes to my home every day. No matter how loudly the angry winds blow. They never can drive him away.

He is not so handsome as some of the birds. That comes with the birth of the spring. And his voice is not cultured to chirp in the words. That gladden each heart as they sing. But he has a system to cheer all his own. And his bright little face makes us glad. As he flutters each day round the doors of our home. What soul could be cheerless and sad.

"MILLIONAIRE ORPHAN'S" BODY IS EXHUMED

Autopsy Is Performed in Order to Determine Cause of McClintock's Death

GIRL TELLS HER STORY

Chicago, Dec. 26.—(By the A. P.)—An autopsy over the body of William H. McClintock, "millionaire orphan," has disclosed the presence of typhoid but has not determined the cause of death, Coroner Oscar Wolf announced today. The pathologist engaged in an autopsy have not completed their findings and before making a report Dr. W. D. McNally, the coroner's chemist, today asked further time.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The body of Wm. Nelson McClintock, 21-year-old "millionaire orphan" who died 3 weeks ago, while his fiancée waited with a marriage license to wed him, was exhumed and the authorities spent their Christmas eve in hurrying an investigation to determine if the help to the ill-fated McClintock millions died from natural causes.

While workers at Oakwood cemetery were cutting through the cement covering of the great bronze casket with pick axes and sledges, Miss Isabelle Hope, pretty school teacher who was to have married the young millionaire, sat in the state's attorney's office and falteringly related the story of her romance which was ended by death.

As soon as the body had been disinterred it was taken to a morgue where an autopsy was immediately performed.

Left $2,000,000 Estate

Young McClintock, who, according to the death certificate, died of typhoid fever, left nearly his entire estate, valued at upwards of $2,000,000 to William D. Shepherd, a lawyer-chemist whose ward he was, Mrs. Shepherd was a co-guardian of the rich youth until he became of age last spring. By the terms of the will Miss Hope who would have become his wife had he regained consciousness the day he died, received an annuity of $5,000.

Sitting close to her father, the sorrow which befell her still plainly written on her face, Miss Hope reviewed her association with young McClintock beginning with their school day romance.

Miss Hope admitted with apparent reluctance that her visits to McClintock when he was ill were discouraged by the Shepherds because they were "disrupting" the order of the household.

When the sick youth asked for an immediate marriage, she said, she consented, but was informed by Shepherd that a marriage license could not be secured in Illinois unless both the contracting parties appeared at the marriage license bureau. She said she later found this to be incorrect and secured the license herself, only to arrive too late at McClintock's bedside. Mrs. Shepherd also was less friendly with her after her engagement to Mrs. Shepherd's ward was announced, the girl said.

"Mr. Shepherd," she said, "told me

BISONS LEAVE ON LONG TRIP

Agricultural College Team Goes to Pacific Coast

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 26.—Coach "Ad" Dewey and seven North Dakota Bison cagers left Wednesday on train No. 3 on the Northern Pacific for an invasion of the Pacific northwest. A large crowd was at the depot to give the team a rousing sendoff.

The Bisons are scheduled to play 10 games, meeting some of the fastest quintets of the far west. They will open their campaign at Spokane, Wash., where they are scheduled to clash with the strong Spokane club quint. The team will also play at Seattle, Portland, Moscow, Idaho; Butte, Bozeman and Missoula, Mont., before returning home Jan. 11.

Four stitches were taken but if the gash responds to medical attention as it should, the "sorrel top" center should be able to start the first game against the Spokane club next Saturday night.

Those making the trip are Captain Cyril Arnold, Claudie Miller, Wallace Thompson, Ben Rumpeltes, Harry Blakely, Ted Greenfield and George Newgaard.

STOCKS RISE IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 26.—Survival of bullish activity in the stock market today sent two-score issues, including 17 copper stocks, soaring to new peak prices for the year.

Set yourself straight on these

Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a necessity!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the Red and Green package.

10 DEATHS IN MIDDLE WEST COLD RECORDED

Some Relief Is Seen For Central Section of the United States

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Partial relief from sub-zero temperatures that brought the coldest Christmas temperatures in years was forecast while the far west was gripped by cold which necessitated use of smudges to protect the citrus crop, already badly damaged.

Eleven deaths, four of them in Chicago, three in Ohio, and two in Oregon and one each in Texas and California were the result of the cold. Three of the Chicagoans were frozen and the fourth, a policeman, was fatally injured in a fall on ice. In Oregon, two boys were drowned in a creek, partly covered by ice. Smudge smokes, obscuring the view of an electric train operator, caused the California death.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 26. Coach "Ad" Dewey and seven North Dakota Bison cagers left Wednesday on train No. 3 on the Northern Pacific for an invasion of the Pacific northwest. A large crowd was at the depot to give the team a rousing sendoff.

The Bisons are scheduled to play 10 games, meeting some of the fastest quintets of the far west. They will open their campaign at Spokane, Wash., where they are scheduled to clash with the strong Spokane club quint.

The team will also play at Seattle, Portland, Moscow, Idaho; Butte, Bozeman and Missoula, Mont., before returning home Jan. 11.

Coach Dewey reported the men to be in excellent condition, except Harry "Red" Blakely, who suffered a bad cut over the eye while jumping from center in the final workout. Four stitches were taken but if the game responds to medical attention as it should, the "sorrel top" center should be able to start the first game against the Spokane club next Saturday night.

Those making the trip are Captain Cyril Arnold, Claude Miller, Wallace Thompson, Ben Rumpel, Harry Blakely, Ted Greenfield and George Newgard.

Chicago, Dec. 26. Partial relief from sub-zero temperatures that brought the coldest Christmas temperatures in years was forecast while the far west was gripped by cold which necessitated the use of smudges to protect the citrus crop, already badly damaged.

Eleven deaths, four of them in Chicago, three in Ohio, and two in Oregon and one each in Texas and California were the result of the cold. Three of the Chicagoans were frozen and the fourth, a policeman, was fatally injured in a fall on ice.

In Oregon, two boys were drowned in a creek, partly covered by ice. Smudge smokes, obscuring the view of an electric train operator, caused the California deaths.
